then . . .

now . . .

always . . .

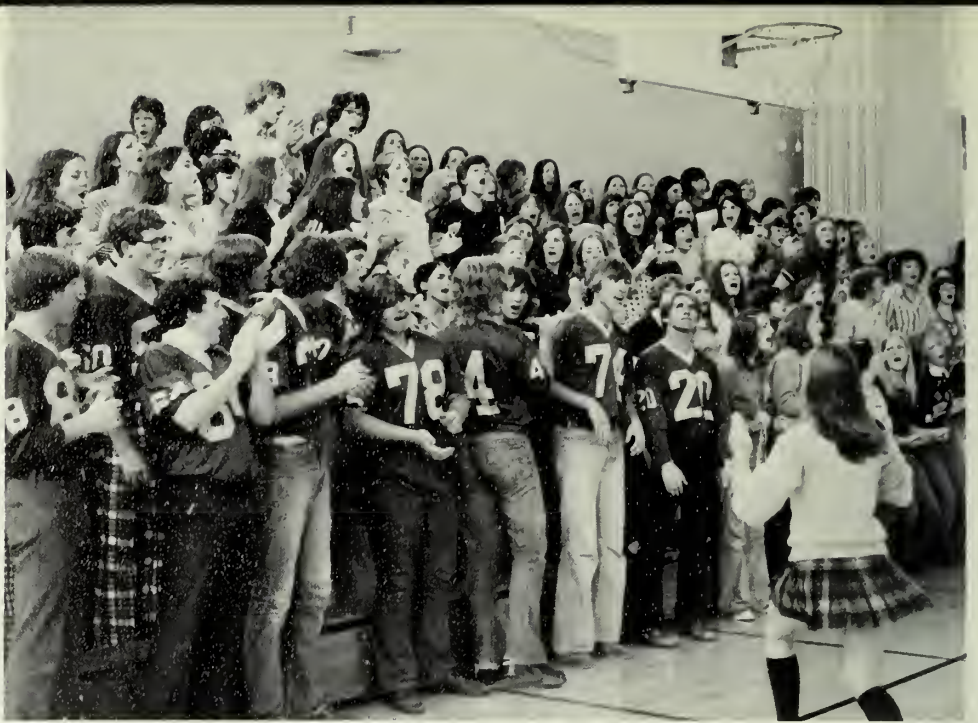

Long ago it must be . . .

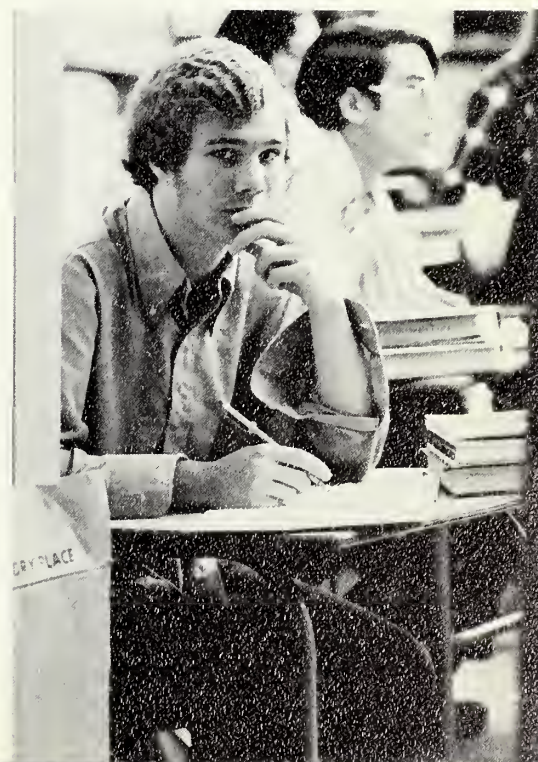

. . . I have the photograph,
preserve your memory.

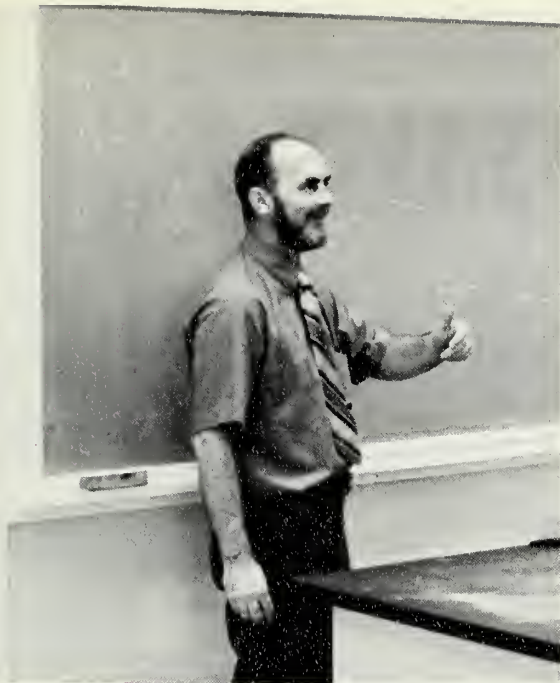

A leaf falls . . .
the sun rises; the sun sets
winter freezes; spring thaws
the tide rolls in; the tide recedes innocence becomes experience
dreams inspire reality.
all things must pass
and so we must be on our way
to face another day.

A SPECIAL TRIBUTE

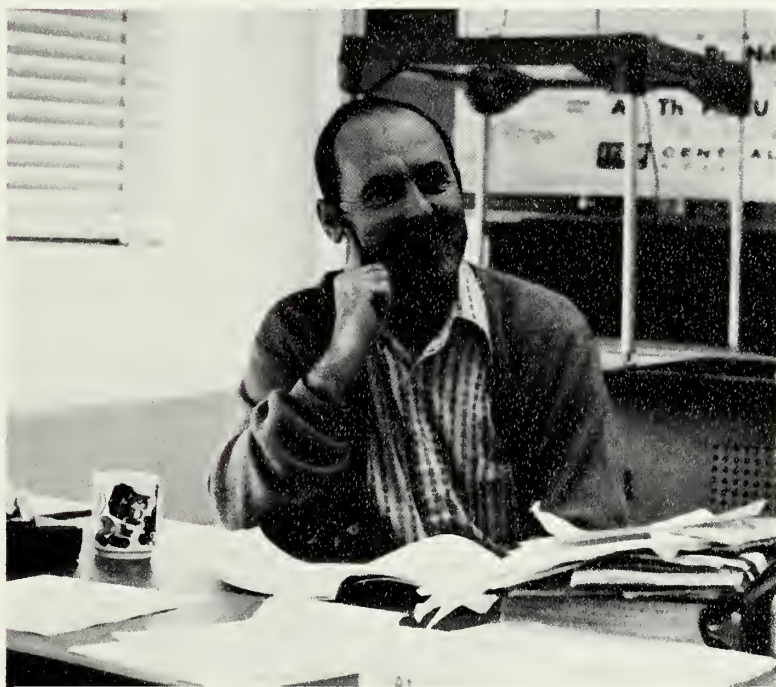

Mr. Arthur Cannon

"There's nothing new under the sun; it's only new to you."

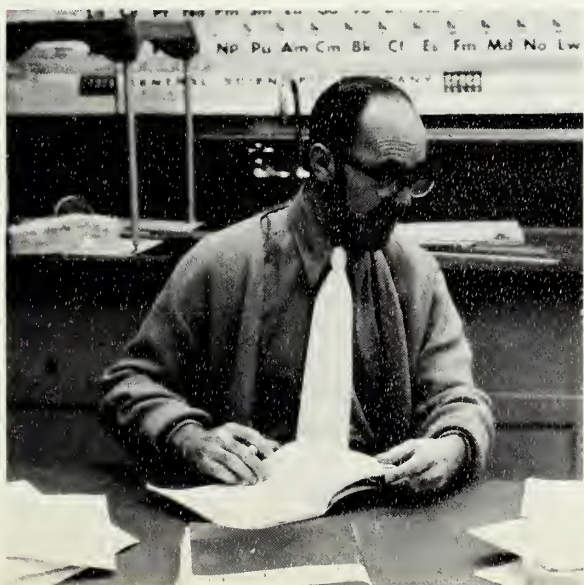

A. Cannon

Mr. Cannon is a very unique person. His understanding of youth has made them not only his students but his friends. As Senior Class Advisor, he has motivated us into accomplishing numerous goals. With him behind us, no problems were too difficult to overcome because of the unity he brought to our class.

Mr. Cannon's varied background acquired through his education, his experiences, and his travels with the Merchant Marine reflects in his dynamic methods of teaching. Special to his style is his keen sense of humor ("Never start out vast projects with half-vast ideas!") which stimulates student interest.

Someone once said, "Teachers touch souls." Mr. Cannon, you have touched us in a special way and for this we dedicate this book to you.

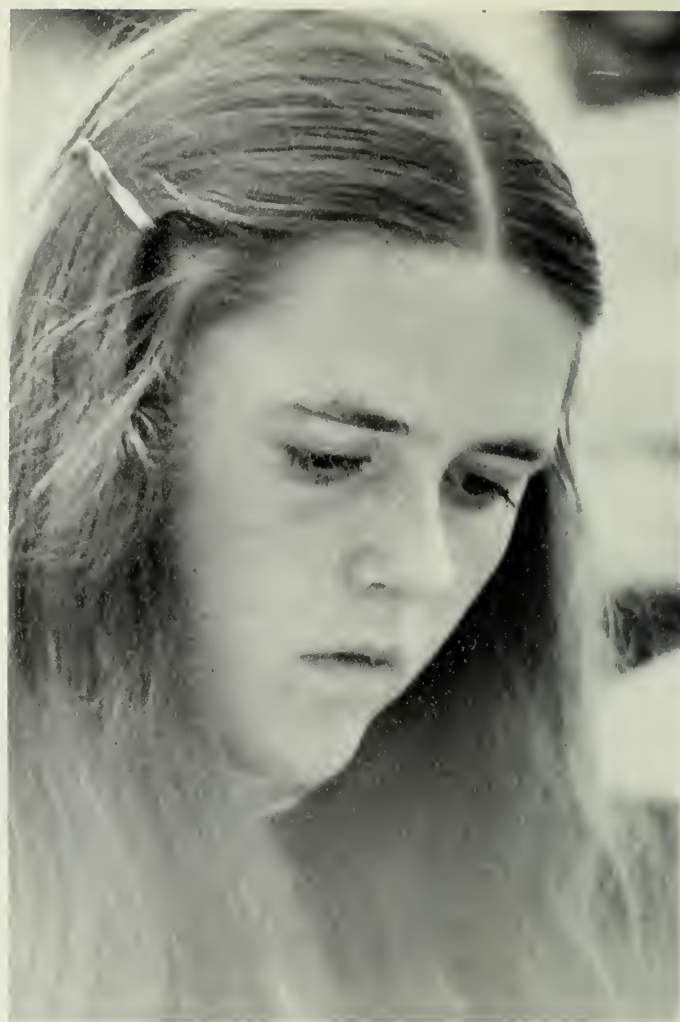

Thanks,
Mr. Cannon.

Jumpin' jive, look alive . . .

THANKSGIVING WEEK

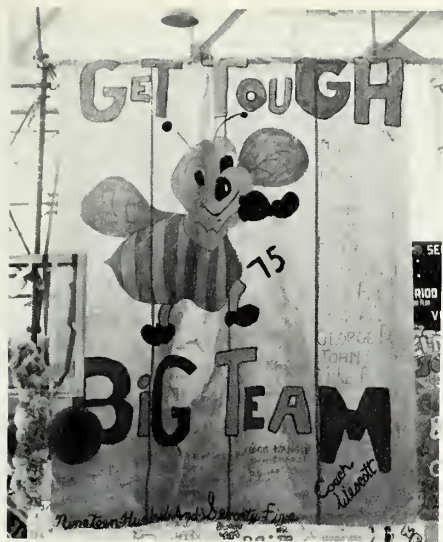

Thanksgiving slipped through North Reading but not without notice this year. Spirit Week provided its usual festivities with posters of every description covering the gym from top to bottom. The Sophomores were rewarded for their talents when they walked away with the Spirit Week prize. Undaunted, the Seniors reasserted their vocal ability and won their second yelling contest. The game, however, will probably be remembered a little longer.

In the ice and snow the Hornets and Pioneers battled back and forth. Throughout the game, well-engineered drives ended in frustration with the elusive pigskin changing hands. Finally, Lynnfield broke the ice and scored midway in the second quarter. In the third quarter, N.R. caught the spirit when Ward rumbled in for six points and Orlosk added his own special touch.

Controversy came in the waning minutes of the final quarter when Canavan broke up a pass along the sidelines. Even though the receiver came down without the ball, the play was ruled complete and Lynnfield went on from there. Time and mistakes finally squelched North Reading's shot at the Turtle.

Charging onto the field.

Even though the Hornets did not have an overly successful season record-wise, their spirit and determination were unswerving. Battling out many tight scores, the team's strength was evident if not always highly visible.

Numerous offensive rushes by Bill Canavan and Joe Gleason revealed North Reading's offensive might along with Quarterback Jim Demetri's powerful passes. Co-Captains Peter Mastro, Rick Ward, and Mark Zurawel worked closely with Coach Wescott in holding the team's game plan together. But it was individual efforts that shone through the haze of defeat.

Above all else this is what Coach Wescott remembers about Season '74: "The improvement of the football skills and team attitude are a tribute to the kids." Perhaps this is what high school football is all about.

Words of encouragement come from Coach Wescott.

Ginger takes her shortcut.

Hornet defensemen close in.

There are very few people, let alone football coaches, who have not been influenced by the adage, "win at any cost". The cliché, "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game", has become virtually non-existent. However, we are proud to announce that we know and love a member of this minority, Coach Lloyd Wescott. At North Reading just two years, he is a talented, thoughtful, and dedicated coach who took a group of high school boys and formed a hard-working team. As a coach and as a person, Mr. Wescott is a rare breed, and we are fortunate to have him with us.

D. Higgins scoops past a Newburyport opponent.

The stars of the '74 sports scene no doubt are the Girl's Field Hockey Team. As the Cape Ann League Champs, the spirited "Hackers" suffered only two losses, attaining a proud record of 10-2-1.

Some of the credit goes to Coach Nancy McLaughlin who steered the team to consecutive winning seasons.

Junior goalie Kathy Silvia's key saves often determined the outcome of many contests. Still, team effort by all collected victories in the win column. Captain Jill Lannon and Co-captain Debbie Higgins leave the squad, however, a strong mixture of underclasswomen promise many equally successful years.

SOCCER

"Gotcha!"

"Kickeroo."

Anticipation.

Soccer fever hit North Reading High School only a few short years ago and since then has mushroomed into a major sport. The Seniors of '75 grew up with the added sport and quickly turned it into a school asset.

The varsity line-up this year consisted mostly of Seniors with three solid years of soccer behind them. Tri-Captains Chuck Barkhouse, Paul Lones, and Peter Silvia often were deciding factors between a win or a loss. Of course, goalie Rich "Cheese" Estes deserves credit for saving many a rough-and-tumble contest.

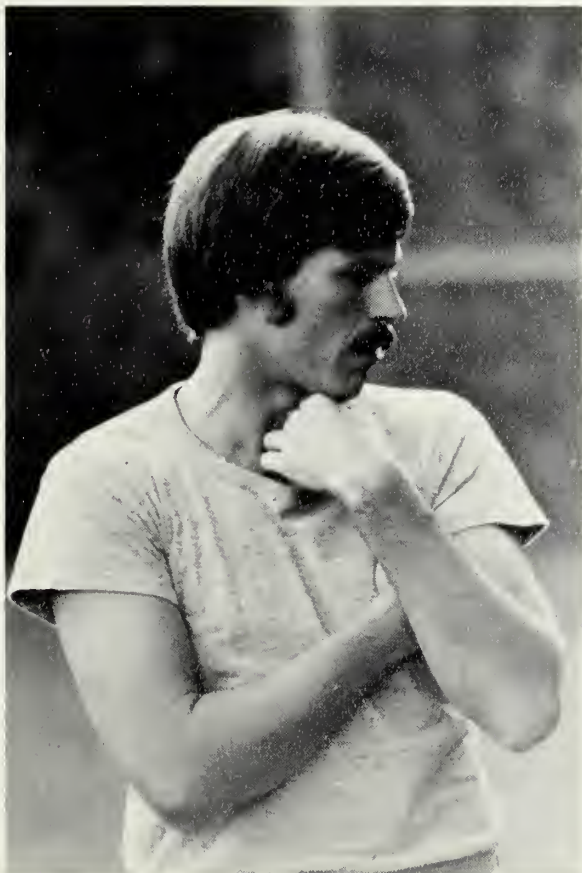

Coached by Roy Condon from the start, the soccer squad sparked new interest in the foreign sport. Three of this year's Hornets, Chuck Barkhouse, Jim O'Rourke, and Rich Estes, were chosen All-Stars in the Cape Ann League. Despite graduating Seniors, many upcoming prospects guarantee continuing Soccer successes.

A sign on the Malden Co-Op Bank proclaims it with pride to all who pass, "Congratulations North Reading Division I State Champs!" Every game was fought for; stolen bases, belly slides, bunts, and catches that defied reason were Hornet trademarks.

Coach Frank Carey said at the start of the season that with consistency this team would take the league championship. Frank, you set your goals much too low.

Consistency was an understatement, as the Hornets rolled on without hesitation. Their attack was brought into the limelight when they tore apart the Whiz Kids from Milton by a 6-2 score. Bill Canavan made one of his game-saving catches, Hartery hit a 465-foot blast, and Rick Ward held the Whiz Kids at bay from the mound.

In mid-June the scene was Rockland for the Division I State Finals. The Hornets scratched out a run. Then Bill Canavan put Pittsfield in the web of his glove with his now-famous diving catch in center field with the tying run on third. The final score of 2-1 told the story: The Hornets were the Bay State Division I Champs!
